I'm excited to, once again, run for Council for the town I have grown to love and now call home. I am committed to doing my part to ensure it remains one of the best places in which to live, grow, work, and retire.

There are many aspects and points of view to be considered with every issue brought before council. For those with a single agenda or narrow point of view the job can be frustrating as the process of change appears slow or immovable. I am not a controversial individual, nor am I a pushover; I understand some decisions can be unpopular, but all decisions must be made on strong principals with sound judgement.

My first term on council was an excellent learning experience. Council was able to clear up several outstanding projects dating back years - like the drainage sewer east of town which we committed to 50 years ago! This project is finally slated for completion next year, freeing up funds for future projects.

As one of the oldest communities in Western Canada, Gravelbourg has some of the oldest infrastructure in the province. Some water and sewer lines have been in use since WWII. Replacement will be expensive and long-term. Priorities must be set, funds set aside, and schedules maintained as we move forward to ensure the long-term growth and longevity of this amazing community.
